

WELCOME SEMINAR

POPULISM AS A PRACTICE OF SUBJECTIFICATION

LINGUISTIC AND SOCIOLOGICAL REFLECTIONS ON CONTEMPORARY POLITICAL DISCOURSE

JOHANNES ANGERMULLER

VISITING SCIENTIST

Open University

12 aprile 2022
h 12.30

aula 3D440 – Campus Einaudi
Live su webex

Johannes Angermuller has been Professor of Discourse, Languages & Applied Linguistics at the Open University (UK) since 2019. From 2009 to 2012, he taught as a Professor (W1) of the Sociology of Higher Education at Mainz University. (Germany). In 2012, he was appointed Research Professor of Discourse at the Centre for Applied Linguistics at Warwick (Coventry, UK). With a background in linguistics and sociology, he is known for his work in Discourse Studies and Poststructuralism. While his research interests centre on the social effects of language in use, notably the discursive construction of social order, he has studied academic, educational as well as political discourses. He is the founding president of DiscourseNet. International Association of Discourse Studies, and has initiated monthly online workshops in discourse research in English, French and Spanish/Portuguese.