Erik Neveu is emeritus professor of political science at Sciences Po Rennes. He is a member of the research team ARENES-CNRS. A large part of his research has focused on media and the public sphere, social movements, and the construction of public problems. His most recent books are « Globalizing issues. How frames, claims and problems cross borders », (with Muriel Surdez, Palgrave 2020) and « Nouvelle sociologie politique de la France, with Christian Lebart and Thomas Frinault (Dunod, 2021).quasi paradossalmente, permesso alla dimensione locale di riacquistare una nuova salienza e rilevanza agli occhi dei cittadini. Si concluderà analizzando il potenziale impatto (politico e di policy) di questa nuova forma di localismo che sfida i principi alla base delle relazioni tra governo centrale e locale in Inghilterra.
